HANDGUN ORIENTATION COURSE

The Handgun Orientation course is specifically tailored towards individuals who are considering a career pathway into the demanding and specialised sections of the workforce; whether it is your desire to enter into the Military, Law Enforcement or Armed Security (Cash in Transit) service, this course is your first step in the right direction.

The course goal is to deliver a high level instruction on the basis of Knowledge, Skills and Attitude necessary for any individual considering a career in Law Enforcement, Armed Security, Military or owning a handgun for sports shooting. However, you may simply desire to overcome your fear of firearms.

This course also suits those individuals who require a more tailored instruction of personal development and at the end of the course you will gain the knowledge, skill and attitude that will shift your belief that guns are something to be afraid of. This could not be further from the truth; firearms are no more dangerous than the motor vehicle you drive to work every day.

COURSE STRUCTURE

The course is designed to run over an 8-hour day and course participants will gain knowledge on all the necessary safety aspects of handling, inspection and serviceability of the handgun, the use of the handgun, the relevant legislation relating to firearms in general and the basics on Firearm Safety.

Course participants will then partake in a practical qualification shoot at the firing range, where there will be a Senior SIG ACADEMY Firearms Instructor and Range Safety Officer to put you through your paces, which is designed to ultimately entrench the knowledge learnt earlier in the day. Here you will reinforce the dry practice skills learnt at the Academy thus developing the right attitude to become a smarter, safer and more confident operator.

COURSE OUTLINE

The content of this course may fulfill local requirements for sports shooting clubs and other permits. In any case, this course will exceed those requirements.

- Basic fundamentals and safety
- Potential Dangers (penetration, ricochet, accidental discharges, etc.)
- Components and operation of modern pistols and or revolvers.
- Types, components, and purposes of modern ammunition
- Applicable laws relating to firearm categories and to the licensing requirements, interstate travel and transportation, and storage of firearms.
- Administrative loading and unloading of semi-automatic pistols and or revolvers.

This requires constant effort in all aspects of risk management, process control, training and communication. We are dedicated to making this attitude part of our culture and everyday activities.

Our policy of having a workplace free from alcohol or drugs is part of our commitment to building a safer network for our customers and staff.

How frequently do you train with your duty weapon? The industry firearms training frequency and requirement are not nearly as rigorous as it should be. This is why we have developed this program PD - Industry Shoot for law enforcement officers and armed security personnel.

Training and development require time and money, the two rarest things in many armed professionals lives, these is why we have developed this program as part of our commitment to improving officer safety, public safety and help raise the industry standards. Law enforcement officers are required to qualify at an approved course of fire assessment only once a year, shooting only 24 rounds for the entire qualification to maintain their ability to carry a firearm.

We all know that this is nowhere as close as good enough as it should be for an officer to operate with high level of proficiency and safety armed in public.

Professional development in firearms training has its undeniable massive benefits. If you are ever in a life threatening defensive situation, can you prove it has been less than 6 months since you’ve used your firearm and shot last? Can you prove your proficiency and accuracy was at an acceptable level where it should be?

Investing in your own professional development and undertaking training courses as an armed professional is an excellent way to prove that you are proficient with sound skills and knowledge to operate effectively in your industry and capable of making the right tactical decisions in critical situations.

How often should you train? As often as you possibly can, you can never have enough training. Shooting on a regular basis helps keep your firearms training frequency at an acceptable level.

If your proficiency and accuracy is questionable, shooting only once or twice a year, how can you protect yourself and save others in a life threatening situation? How can you provide evidence in any case to prove that you are well trained at high level?

BENEFITS OF THIS PROGRAM

- Improve your proficiency with firearms
- Improve your firearms safety awareness
- Improve your overall performance and shooting accuracy
- Improve your speed and reaction time
- Help you manage stress
- Increase your confidence
- Provide you with an attendance certificate
- Access to our free app to upload your record of results

Do I have to do the First Aid component?

HLTFA311A Apply First Aid is a core unit of competency part of the CPP20212 Certificate II in Security Operations and it is also a requirement in obtaining your security licence from the Police Licensing Centre that you have current and valid first aid certification. If you possess a current HLTFA311A Apply First Aid within the last 10 months, then you do not need to re-qualify in these skills. However if you only have a couple of months left on your certification until it expires we recommend you re-qualify.

How difficult is the course?

The course is structured to ensure everyone fully understands every aspect to operate effectively in the security industry. The learning is delivered in a manner that takes into account learning difficulties and challenges. We take the time to ensure you fully understand the material and are able to remain compliant with all acts, regulations and procedures. We ensure that you will leave the SIG ACADEMY not only with your qualification but armed with complete confidence that you will be an effective Security Officer and/or a Crowd Controller.
Can I undertake the course through Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)?

Yes. If you possess the skills and are able to provide full documentation this could be an option for you. Contact the SIG ACADEMY on 1300788827 for further information.

Must I do the Crowd Control Electives?

No. However analysis of the jobs currently available within the security industry indicates that more and more employers are seeking this qualification. Possessing the crowd control qualification may increase your employment opportunities within the security industry.

What if I have any further questions?
